In addition, please document in your investigative report whose custody the scene was left in when you departed (e.g.: Name of police authority, NOK)

Note: Often times you will not be able to examine certain sections of the body on scene for a variety of reasons, such as the body was clad in jeans and boots. Documentation in the investigative report should indicate why this body part was not examined.

Example: The body was clad in blue jeans that were buttoned, zipped and the belt was buckled; therefore, the lower extremities were not examined on scene.

It is imperative to keep in mind that the 45-points of “Every Scene, Every Time” documentation do not stand alone, but rather complement the narrative portion of the investigative report consisting of a case summary, investigative details, medical and social history, identification, and next-of-kin contact sections.
